Glen Cove Mansion Hotel and Conference Center Introduces

The “55 Acres of Meeting Space Package”

Glen Cove, New York, January 2010 ... The historic and award-winning Glen Cove Mansion Hotel and Conference Center is the century-old former Gilded Age estate of John and Ruth Pratt of Standard Oil fame. The Pratt’s beloved country estate on Long Island’s fabled North Shore (setting for The Great Gatsby, Sabrina, North by Northwest, etc.) was just 45 minutes from their offices in Manhattan ... yet in the midst of their 55-acre estate, they were a world away from the city’s distractions. The family loved their property and lived there until just before the estate became a dedicated hotel and conference center in 1968 – one of the very first in the United States.

Today, so close to the nation’s largest city and major airports, Glen Cove Mansion’s original 55 serene, mind-clearing acres remain intact, as does the Pratt mansion. Mostly wooded and within walking distance to Long Island Sound, the estate’s acreage offers groomed walking and biking paths -- and an opportunity to clear one’s mind and solidify information gained in conferences held at the property.

Instead of cramped meeting rooms, concrete terraces and views of more buildings, Glen Cove Mansion offers state-of-the-art, IACC*-approved meeting facilities and conference services with views of expansive groomed lawns, English-style gardens, the Pratt family’s beautiful swimming pool and summer house, and acres of woodlands. From the third floor restaurant and pub, expansive views of Long Island Sound serve to inspire.

In recognition of this, Glen Cove Mansion Hotel and Conference Center has introduced the “55 Acres of Meeting Space Package.” Structured as a Complete Meeting Package, the 55 Acres of Meeting Space Package starts at the incredible value rate of $199 per person (Day Meeting Packages from $99 per person).
